Seven participants joined City staff for a guided tour of the Clearwater Main Library to explore redevelopment opportunities. Eric Santiago welcomed the group and opened the tour. Tasha Hadley recorded and took notes throughout.

The group began on the rooftop and moved through each floor, viewing public areas, administrative offices, youth and teen spaces, the digitization lab, and the former café/gallery. Staff shared information on library operations and discussed potential cultural or museum use as outlined in the city's redevelopment call.

The tour concluded on the first floor with a visit to the art gallery and west terrace.
